Fee on the increment of deposits at year end is calculated as the product of the aforementioned percentage and the increment in deposits as of 31 December of the relevant year. ČSOB is entitled to charge the fee once a year, no later than on the second business day of March of the next year. The fee is debited from the fee account of the client in the currency of that account. If the client does not define a fee account, the fee is debited from the current account which has the highest balance on the day of the charge. The current CNB exchange rate is used for conversions between CZK and foreign currencies.

1) The average volume of funds during the year is calculated as the sum of positive balances of deposits on the last day of each month between 1 January and 30 November of the relevant year, divided by the relevant number of months. The calculation considers the sum of funds in current, savings, time and deposit accounts of the client in all currencies as of the last day of the relevant month. The daily balance does not include time deposits with a custom interest rate and deposit bills of exchange.
